Position #: 3461

Primary Purpose of Position

Teaching, advising, service, scholarship, and research.

Job Description

Established in 1887 as a school for the education of American Indians, The University of North Carolina at Pembroke serves a distinctly diverse student body and encourages inclusion and appreciation of the values of all people. Located in the heart of Pembroke, N.C., UNCP boasts an enrollment of 8,200 in 41 undergraduate and 18 graduate programs and offers a personalized learning environment where faculty and staff are dedicated to engaged scholarship, high academic standards, creative activity and public service. Spread over 281 acres, the campus offers a sense of community and belonging--a place where faculty and staff feel supported, take pride in the university's mission, and are devoted to excellence in teaching, learning and research, and to developing leaders who make a difference in their communities.

Teach face to face and online introductory level, intermediate, and advanced courses in sociology, criminology, and criminal justice. Opportunities may be available to teach graduate courses in sociology and criminal justice. This position may require teaching and advising assignments at off-campus satellite programs.

Serve as faculty adviser to students. Perform administrative tasks as directed by the department chair. Engage in scholarship including, but not limited to professional publications, conference presentations, and grant acquisition.

Engage with the campus community by participation in department and university-wide committees. Engage in community activities relevant to the local community and the region.

Management Preference

Degree(s) in appropriate disciplines areas - prior experience teaching in higher education both face to face and online. Prefer an individual capable and willing to teach both sociology and criminal justice courses.

Posting Number: EPA00599
